For some people, summer rituals—unpacking the car after vacation, for example—are a reminder of how fast they or their children are getting older or how fleeting life is.

I am post Lyme disease and also have sick building syndrome (I lived in a water damaged house for three years at the same time that I was fighting the Lyme’s).

Well FINALLY, this week at PT I had a heart to heart with the actual PT.